Journey Overview

Sail away to the tranquil islands and beaches in the Corales del Rosario National Park, just off Colombia's Caribbean coastline southwest of Cartagena. Islas Barú is home to Playa Blanca, a stretch of impossibly white sand fringed with mangroves and palapas (thatched palm shade rooms). Islas del Rosario is home to Colombia's most important coral reef system and a protected Natural National Park. These romantic Caribbean island paradises are teeming with centennial trees, internal lagoons, white sandy stretches of beach and, of course, superb coral reefs. This is the Caribbean, but not as you know it.

Journey Highlights

Explore the colourful archipelago of coral islands

Seek out hidden icing-sugar beaches

Swim and snorkel in brilliant blue waters

Itinerary

Day 1: Arrive Cartagena – Barú Island.

Begin with a private transfer to Santa Cruz pier where you board your speedboat for the one-hour ride from colonial Cartagena to your island paradise. Upon arrival, transfer to your beach retreat.

Hotel Las Islas (Ocean View Bungalow with Jacuzzi)

Days 2-3: Barú Island.

Immerse yourself in your Caribbean paradise during two days at leisure. Spend time on the island's white sand beaches, explore the fascinating coral and marine life with a dive into the sea, or view a breathtaking sunrise from your treetop hideaway. Nearby Isla Rosario, reached by speedboat, is home to the national park. Spot white egrets, herons, pelicans and parrots, which can appear at any moment. Alternatively join in one of your hotels included activities such as a cooking class and a night tour to see the luminous plankton. Or try your hand at paddle surfing or kayaking.
